

EDITOR'S OBSERVATIONS

- Nora V. Demleitner, Constitutional Challenges, Risk-based Analysis, and Criminal History Databases: More Demands on the U.S. Sentencing Commission 159

ARTICLES

- Linda Drazga Maxfield, Measuring Recidivism under the Federal Sentencing Guidelines 166
- Julian V. Roberts, Impact of Criminal History on Sentencing: Recent Developments in England and Wales 171
- Colleen P. Murphy, Prior Convictions, Jury Trial, and the Burden of Proof 175
- Sigmund G. Popko, Through the Looking Glass: Reflecting on Prior Crimes of Violence 180
- David E. Johnson, Looking to the Past and Seeing the Future? – Graham v. West Virginia: The Century-Old Prior Conviction Decision 187
- Michael Edmund O'Neill, Reconceptualizing Criminal History for First Time Offenders 191
- Andrew J. Ashworth, Criminal History in England: The Search for the Snark 207
- Kevin Washburn, Reconsidering the Commission's Treatment of Tribal Courts 209
- Jon M. Sands & Jane L. McClellan, Commentary: Policy Meets Practice: Why Tribal Court Convictions Should Not Be Counted 215
- Bruce D. Black, Commentary on Reconsidering the Commission's Treatment of Tribal Courts 218
- William C. Canby, Jr., Commentary: Treatment of Tribal Court Convictions 220
- Charles Kornmann, Commentary on Reconsidering the Commission's Treatment of Tribal Courts 222
- Frederic L. Kirgis, The Avena Case in the International Court of Justice and the U.S. Response 223
- Robert Heiner, The Growth of Incarceration in The Netherlands 227